
Ray Smith didn't respond to your request

From Trustpilot <noreply.notifications@trustpilot.com>

Date Sun 2026-07-19 3:41 AM

To Anthony Brodie <legionkillfeed@outlook.com>

Ray Smith didn't respond to your request

On July 15, 2026, you asked Ray Smith to move their review to the correct domain.

The reviewer didn't respond to your update request before the deadline July 18, 2026.

Unprofessional company uses false claims to suppress honest consumer feedback

I am writing this updated review because this US-based business is engaging in deceptive practices to suppress genuine customer feedback. After I posted an honest, negative review about my actual experience with them, the owner chose to falsely claim that I am a business competitor using a fake name to sabotage them. This is a complete lie. Intentionally making false claims to flag and take down legitimate customer feedback directly violates the FTC's Trade Regulation Rule on the Use of Consumer Reviews (Review Suppression). Under US federal law, manipulating reviews to hide poor ratings is considered an unfair and deceptive trade practice. I have already submitted my official, redacted proof of purchase and identity documents directly to Trustpilot to prove I am a legitimate customer. Potential customers should avoid this business at all costs; any company that resorts to lying and violating federal review regulations to bury poor ratings cannot be trusted.

Flag the review

Write a public reply

Flag a different issue